

DINNERTIME MANNERS

To be role played by designated class members.

1. You have been asked out on this hot date. You are going to one of the nicest restaurants in the city. What will you do once you are inside and before your meal is served?
2. Your parents always warned you that you would be embarrassed some day for not taking heed to their dinner-time etiquette. Here you are, with your hopefully future boss and a good impression is a must. Dinner is about to be served and you can't remember what to do with your napkin before you eat, let alone after you are through eating. What do you do?
3. You are in a very nice French restaurant and are being served the soup and bread course of the meal. How will you proceed?
4. You and your best friend have just finished eating a huge seven course meal. As you sit back and take in the emptied dishes, you realize you have got to do something so the waiter/waitress will know you are through pigging out and are ready for the check. What do you do?
5. You and your wealthy date have just finished one delicious, expensive meal. You are really impressed with this guy until you see how much he decides to tip the waiter/waitress.
6. You are totally crazy about this guy (or girl) until you eat one meal with him/her. It was an extremely disgusting and embarrassing experience. What did he/she do to turn you off?
