

Winning The Order of Operations War

(to: "When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again". Lyrics by Linda Bolin)

When several operations must be done, be done.
There is no need to cower or to run, to run.
Follow orders to keep the battle tight
Begin at the left and move to the right
We always follow our Order of Operations!

First hunt for those Parentheses, oh please, oh please
Perform the operations inside these (), in these ()
Then, eliminate Exponents you may sight
Begin at the left and move to the right,
And always follow the Order of Operations!

Next, you Multiply OR you Divide the foe, the foe
From left to right again, that's where you go, you go.
Last, you Add OR Subtract to win the fight
We always follow the Order of Operations!

Yes, the victors follow the Order of Operations!
