

This animal uses its nose to dig in the mud.

This animal uses its strong sense of smell to seek out its prey.

The nose of this animal helps it get a drink and take a bath.

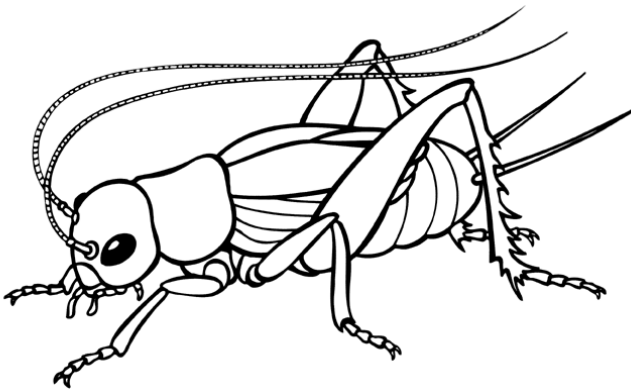

The nose of this animal helps it to breathe while it waits for its prey.

This animal uses its nose to find its way through its house.

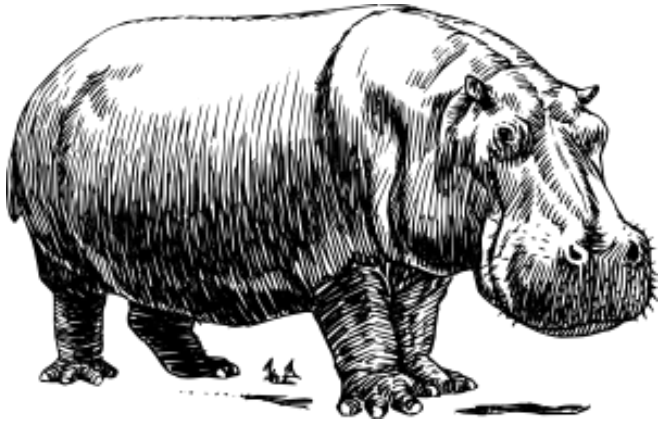

This animal uses its ears to detect its prey and travel at night.

The ears of this animal are found on its legs.

The long ears of this animal help it to keep cool.

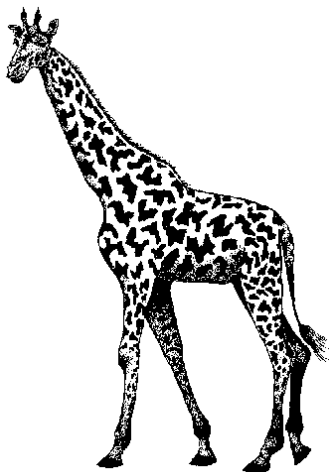

This animal's ears close off when it goes under water.

This animal's ears are tiny openings allowing it to hear for miles away.

This animal uses its tail as a warning to its predators to "back off".

This animal uses its tail to keep insects off of its back.

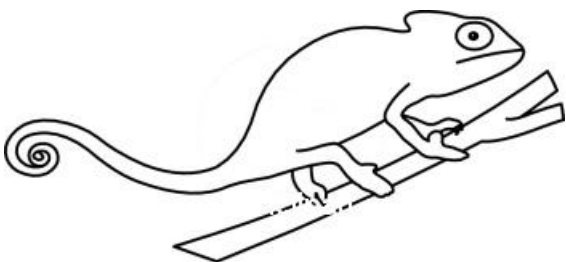

This animal's tail can be cut off to distract its predators.

This animal uses its tail to paralyze its attacker with poison.

This animal uses its tail as another hand.

This animal can turn each eye independently which allows it to see its food and predators.

This animal has great eyesight which allows it to see its prey from far away.

This animal uses its eyes to spray blood to frighten its attacker.

This animal uses its special eyes to look both up and down at the same time.

By turning its head, this animal uses its big eyes to see at night

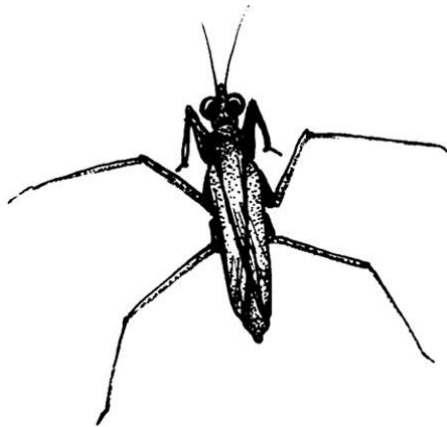

This animal uses its opposable big toe to do many things.

u13462078 fotosearch.com

This animal uses the special color of its feet to attract a mate.

This animal uses tiny hairs on its legs to skim across the water.

v10002b081 fotosearch.com

This animal uses a tiny electrical charge on the bottom of its feet to stick to just about anything.

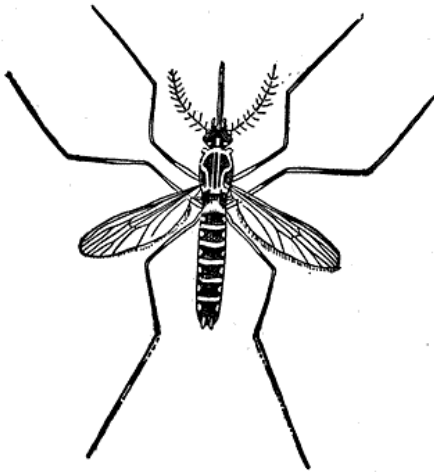

k2214479 www.fotosearch.com

This animal uses its special hooves to hang on to rocky ledges.

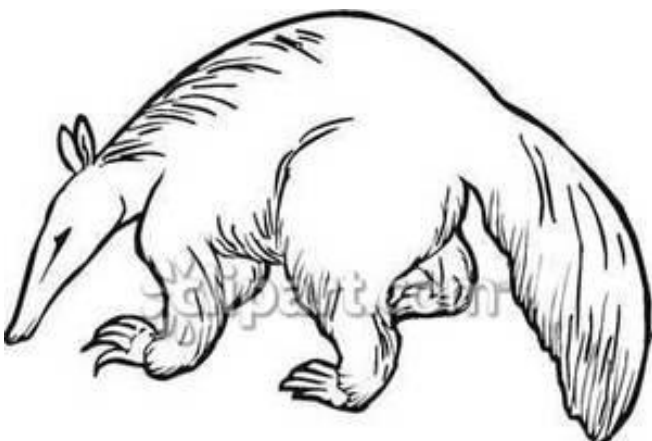

u16481417 fotosearch.com

This animal uses its net-like mouth to scoop up its prey from the water.

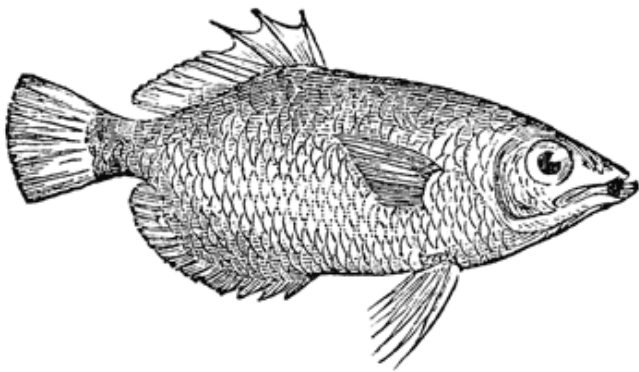

This animal uses a needle-like nose to puncture the skin of its prey.

This animal uses its long mouth and even longer tongue to catch its food.

This animal uses its unlocking jaw and flexible skin to swallow its food whole.

This animal spits water at its prey to knock it into the water so that it can be eaten.