Here are the wonderful ideas I received. Thank you for the responses!

I have my students take a fairy tale/movie character and transport them to a different culture or time period. Draw an outfit for that character appropriate to the culture/time and mat/mount assignment as you would any portfolio page. Then I have the kids present their character to the class, vote on most original etc., give treats, prizes etc. The students are very clever on the changes they make....i.e. Cinderella as an Indian Princess, Peter Pan as a Samuri, Beauty as a geisha.

I don't teach fashion strategies and don't really know what you do in there but it sounds like putting together a fashion show would be fun. (for whatever that is worth!)

Because I have to give the test about a week before the trimester ends, I have my kids do a "design your own line" project. Here is the attached rubric.

Hello. I was wondering if any of you have an activity or something fun you do after taking the state test in Fashion Strategies. Thanks!
