

LINE AND DESIGN CASE STUDIES

Case Study 1:

Susan is planning a wardrobe for school. She has a navy blue and white check blouse she wants to wear and needs help finishing the outfit. Susan has very large hips and would like to wear pants like her friends. What are some of her options?

Case Study 2:

Brian is considered good looking, but he is rather small for his age and somewhat immature in appearance. For that reason he does not look old enough for a job where he would like to work. He does have a dark green sports jacket. What else can Brian wear to make him appear larger and more mature?

Case Study 3:

Anne has lovely skin and facial features. She is 5 feet tall and weighs 150 pounds. She has been asked to a ski party and she really wants to look her best. She needs a whole new outfit. What should she buy?

Case Study 4:

Jeff is going on an interview for a scholarship. He wants to create a good impression. He is self-conscious because he is very tall and thin. What can he wear to create the image he desires?

Case Study 5:

Laura has a date to the movies and pizza dinner. She does not want to give the wrong impression to her date with her curvy, hourglass figure. She likes feminine details and is thinking of wearing black, cotton velveteen pants. Is this what she should wear? If not, what should she wear? Or, what should she wear with the pants?

Case Study 6:

Lacy has long black hair and wears a size 14 blouse because of her large shoulders. She also wears a size 8 skirt or pants because she has small hips. Lacy is going on a summertime biking party and plans to wear yellow cotton pants to keep cool. What can she wear with them to create a pleasant look?
