BETTER BODY CONTOURS: TRUE OR FALSE

- 1. F Wearing the same color of shirt and pants will make you look taller.
- 2. T If your shoulders are broad, you should not wear bulky, fuzzy sweaters.
- 3. F A tall person who wants to appear shorter should wear vertical stripes.
- 4. F Light colors may make you appear slimmer.
- 5. T If your waist and hips are average size, pleated skirts or plaid pants could work for you.
- 6. T Wearing shoes and a belt that contrast with the rest of your outfit is a good idea if you want to call attention to your feet and waist.
- 7. F If you are a bit heavy, a shiny, vinyl coat will help to minimize your size.
- 8. T Body contour faults are hidden when you wear clothes that fit correctly.
- 9. T If you are small, you should wear small prints; if you are large, you can wear large prints.
- 10. F Double-breasted jackets or coats make a person look more slender.
- 11. T A short neck will look even shorter in a turtleneck.
- 12. T A heavy set person looks better wearing fabrics that are cling-free rather than those that cling to the form.
- 13. F Wearing a suit all the same color makes you appear larger in size.
- 14. F Horizontal lines are flattering to a short body.
- 15. T The split vertical line adds height and accent at the facial area.
- 16. T A small area of a cool, light color will balance a large area of a warm, dark color.
- 17. T Very bright and bold colors, or very large prints, will overpower a person with a small frame.
- 18. F A person who is "top heavy" will want to use shoulder pads and dropped shoulder lines.
