A suit, worn with a sweater, scarf, and classic pumps is a good on-the-job look. With a minimum of effort, you can remove the sweater, add a dressy belt to the jacket, add jewelry and sandals, and you're ready for an evening on the town.

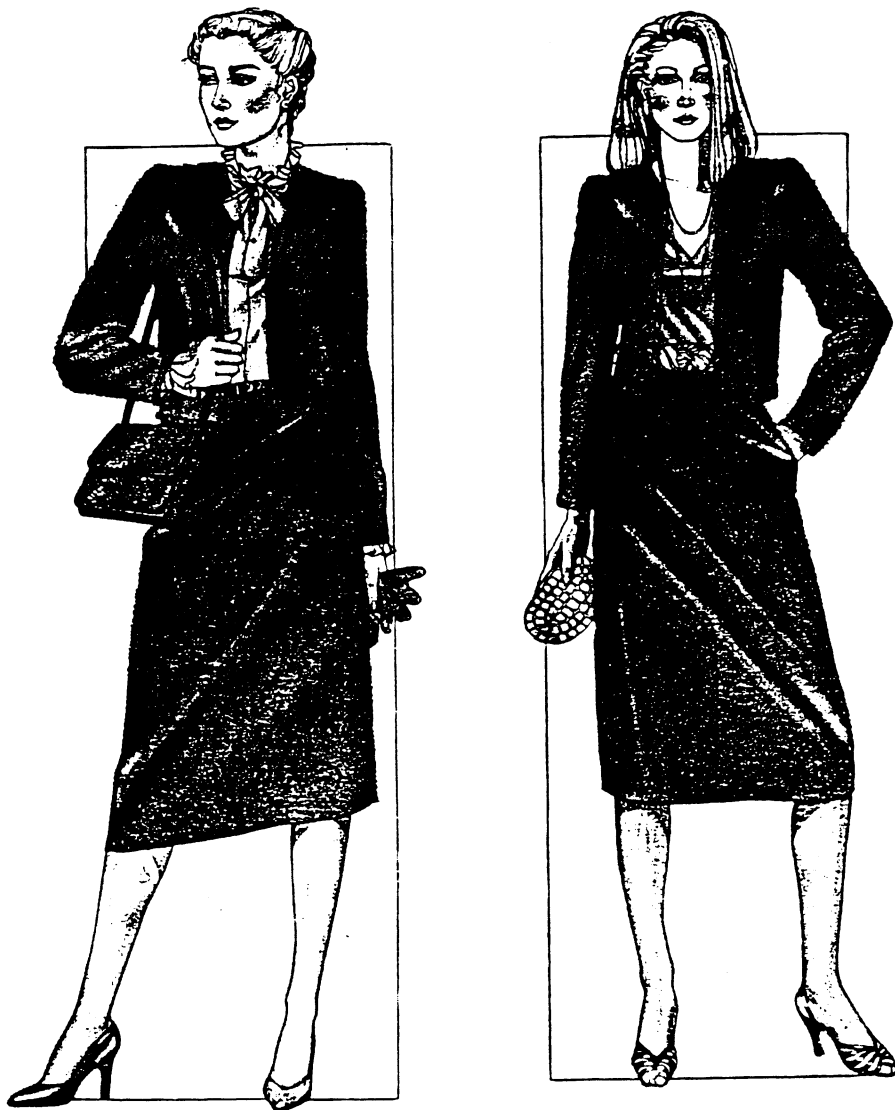

A classic chemise worn with a turtleneck can be the basis of a handsome daytime look. To dress it up for evening, remove the turtleneck, add a dressier sash, pants and sandals. Pretty earrings and soft hair add some polish.

This jacket, soft shirt and slim pants are polished and professional on the job. To take them out in the evening, replace the sweater with a bare camisole top, add wide sash belt instead of a leather one and change from walking shoes to strap sandals. A change in hairstyle would add more polish.

The Cinderella Switch

From a good day's work

. . . to a great night's play.

A shirt dress with a stock tie at the neck, with classic pumps, is great for any daytime occasion. To take it into evening, unbutton the neck of the dress, add a camisole, sash belt and dressy shoes.
