

These U.S. soldiers were training at Fort Polk, Louisiana. They were using search techniques during this training session and the soldiers found a tunnel system in the mock hut. This type of training enabled our soldiers to learn about the techniques the Vietcong would employ in order to win the war.