

PEACE MAKERS

A wonderful day started in the jungle. The clouds hopped away, the Sun smiled down and all the flowers opened their pretty face.

Deep under jungle lived king Andro and queen Antra ant.

The kind king and queen of the ants kingdom they had a brave son, prince Anwin ant, and a sweet daughter princess Antella ant. Everyone in their home was happy and kind.

Far away in a cute little landfill with tiny house made of mud, lived king Porky pig.

His people were cute and friendly, but Porko was jealous. He wished his land was rich and green like the jungle.

So he decided it was time to march toward the jungle with his soldiers.

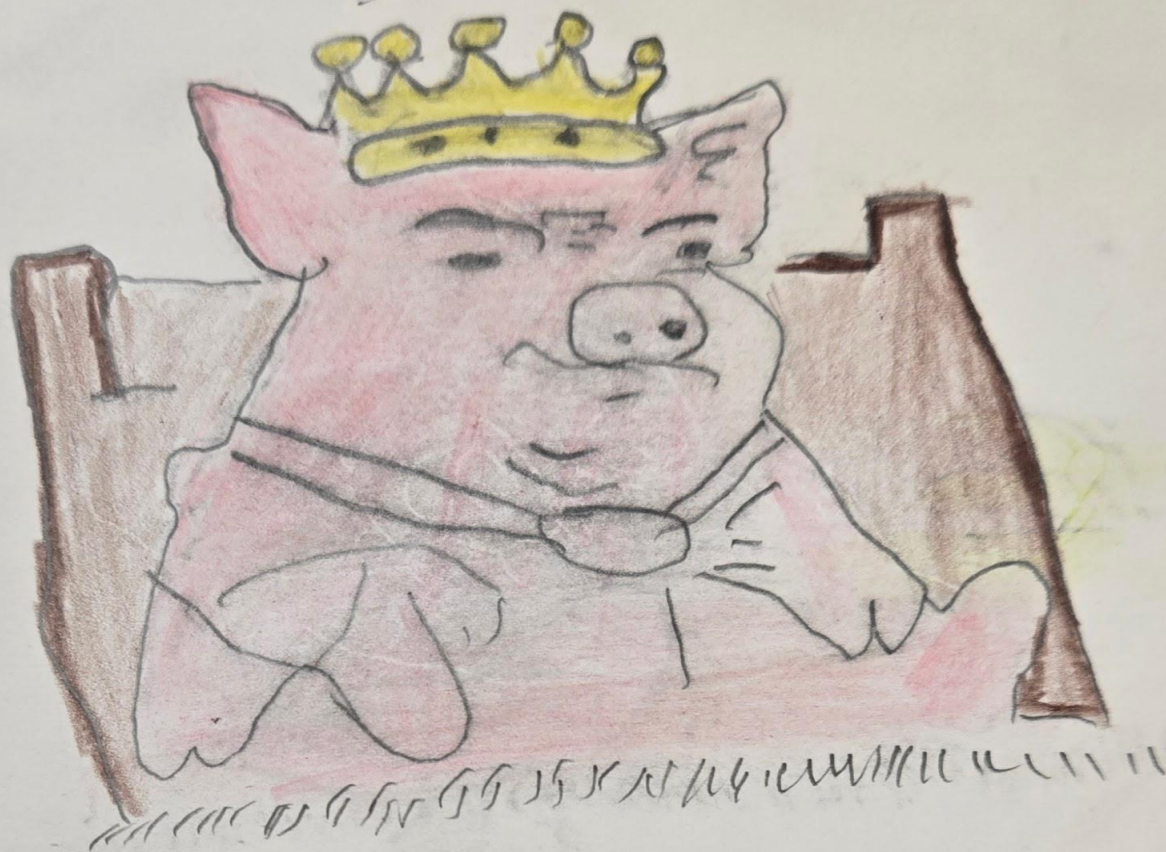

The pigs walked through the jungle, and their feet were making this loud sound pitter-patter-pitter-patter! Everyone in jungle listened quietly and wondered what is going on.

war started.

King Porko was not a bad king he was just jealous because the jungle was so wonderful and his land was not.

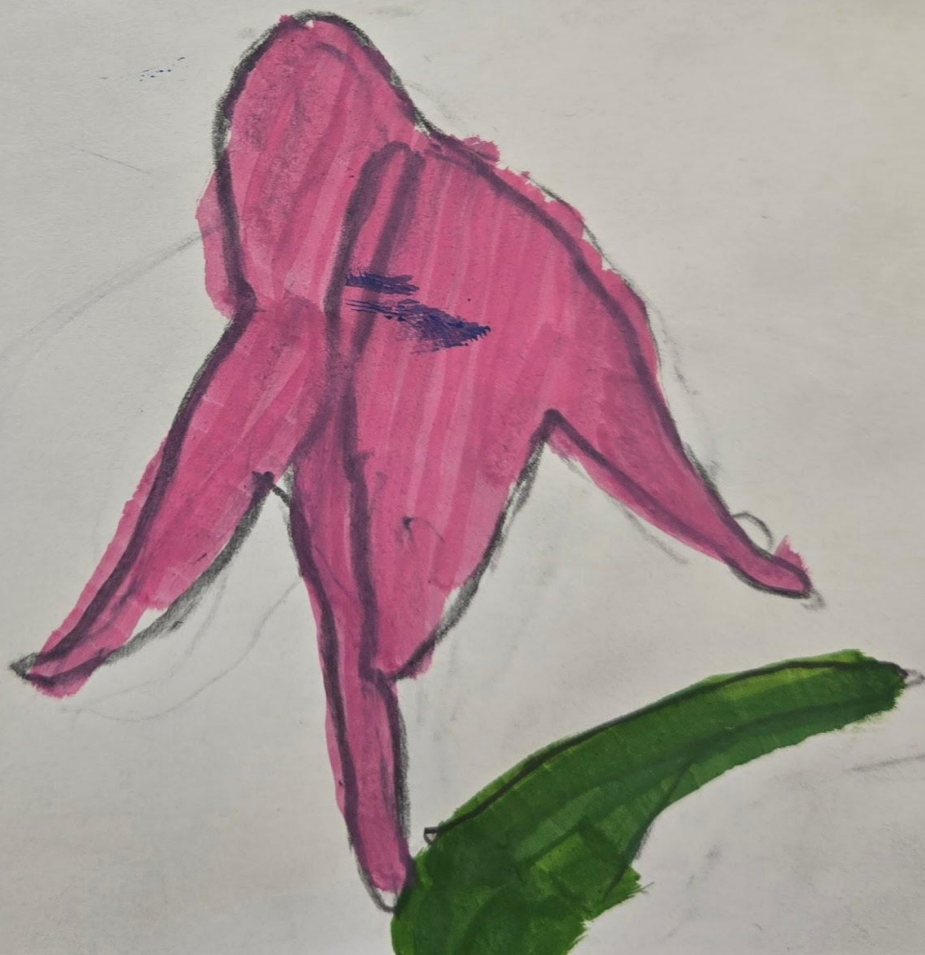

So the two groups of ants and pigs started to fight all because of his feeling in king Porko's heart.

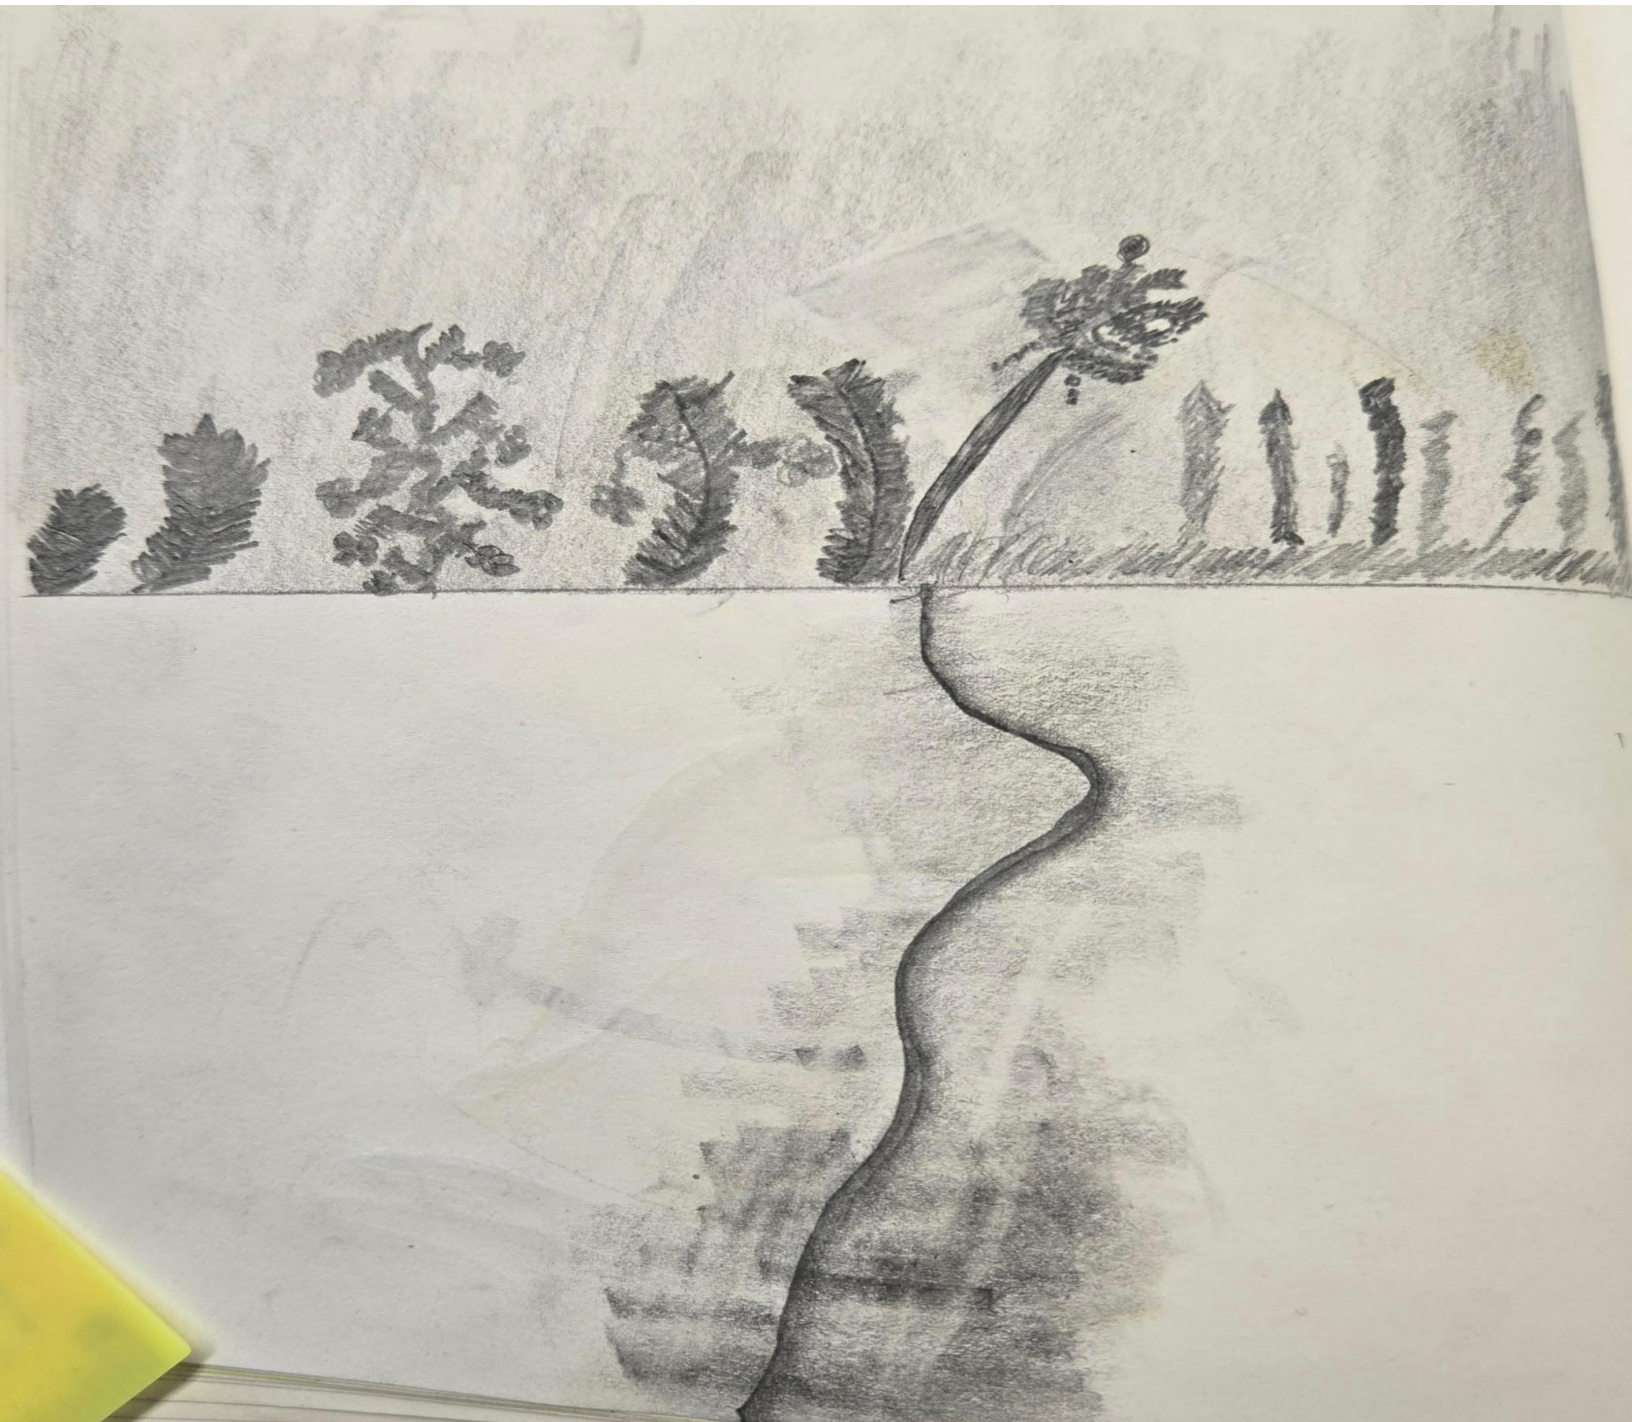

Something bad happened during war king Antra son and king Porko's son got lost.

But the truth was that their kid become friends and went to a journey through the jungle. The played together in the flowers and trees and shared their happiness with everyone.

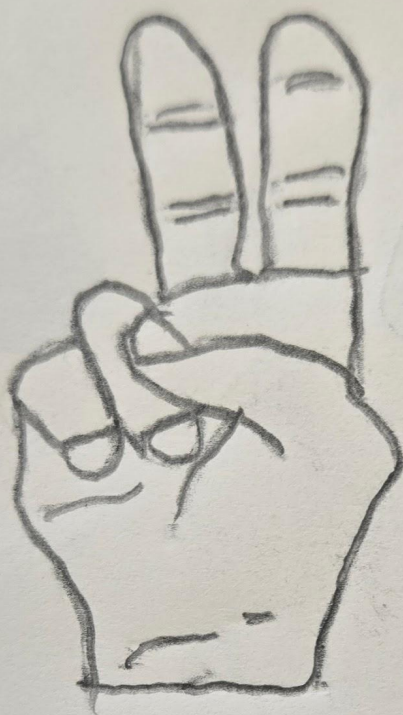

When king Andro and king Porko saw their children laughing and having fun together. They understood something very important. Fighting is not nice, peace and friendship are must better.

So the king made peace, put away their warriors, and decided to be friends from then, on pitter-patter-pitter-patter. The tiny feet walked side by side in happiness and the jungle and the land of cute little pigs lived in peace and love forever.
